Promptings

Ann Lamott is a Christian and a writer who often manages to capture a great deal of wisdom in the space of a paragraph. For instance, in her book Traveling Mercies, she gives us the following gem:

It's funny: I always imagined when I was a kid that adults had some kind of inner toolbox, full of shiny tools; the saw of discernment, the hammer of wisdom, the sandpaper of patience. But then when I grew up I found that life handed you these rusty bent old tools — friendships, prayer, conscience, honesty — and said, Do the best you can with these, they will have to do. And mostly, against all odds, they're enough.

In Lamott's case, she goes on to say that such tools have proven to be enough to help her stop living in the problem and move into the solution. Mind you, she never claims the solution arrives quickly, proves perfect, or will satisfy everyone. Still, she insists that using the life tools we're given in Christ helps break us out of stasis and starts us on the way toward to what might come next in our lives.

Friendships, prayer, conscience, and honesty: Let's not underestimate the value of the tools we have as we deal with life as we know it.
