Promptings

I try to practice the Christian discipline of thankfulness with regard to the life and work of Central Baptist Church of Fountain City. When I do so, I get in touch with what God is doing through the congregation.

For example, I've thanked God for the breadth and depth of the congregation's caregiving to those in need. The ways in which so many of you have ministered to the bereaved, hospitalized, homebound, rehabbing, lonely, and poor in recent weeks is heartening. I'm thankful to be associated with a congregation given to such good work in the name of Christ.

I've been moved by your continued generosity in giving. During December, you gave generously in support of the ministry budget, the CBCFC Christmas Missions Offering, and Building on a Strong Foundation. You did so in spite of uncertainty in the stock market, national and international tensions, and your individual financial challenges. I thank God for the generosity of our congregation.

I've also thanked God for your willingness to take on and pull together on the Puerto Rico mission trip and all it entails. While we are still several months out from the trip, already roughly 75 individuals have committed to go and begun to prepare for their work. Working in partnership with one another, we've laid plans for how to incorporate the project into the learning and worship life of the congregation as well. I'm thankful to have the opportunity to walk alongside you in such a worthy endeavor.

I could add other examples, but I'm sure you get the idea. I suggest you take a few moments in the coming week to practice giving thanks for specific aspects of the life work of CBCFC. Trust me. You'll be glad you did.
