Promptings

Sometimes I think we underestimate what God might do with and through us. If so, I commend the words of William Sloane Coffin to you for your reflection.

What is faith? Faith is being grasped by the power of love. Faith is recognizing that what makes God is infinite mercy, not infinite control; not power, but love unending. Faith is recognizing that if at Christmas Jesus became like us, it was so that we might become more like him. We know what that means: watching Jesus heal the sick, empower the poor, and scorn the powerful, we see transparently the power of God at work. Watching Zaccheus climb the tree a crook and come down a saint, watching Paul set out a hatchet man for the Pharisees and return a fool for Christ, we know that our lives too can become channels for divine mercy to flow out to save the lost and the suffering. (William Sloane Coffin, Credo, p. 8-9).

God works with our individual histories, gifts, weaknesses and opportunities to do God's ministry in the world.

Count on it.
